

Community Fundraising Ambassador

Various locations

Summary:

By volunteering as a Community Fundraiser Ambassador, you'll help make our community collections run smoothly while supporting fellow volunteers and representing the hospice in your local area.

At pre-booked collections and events, you'll be the main point of contact, helping to set up collection points, welcoming volunteer collectors and liaising with venue staff. You'll also have the opportunity to chat with supporters, thank people for their generosity and share information about the hospice, upcoming events and ways to get involved.

This volunteer role is ideal for someone who enjoys meeting people, being organised and helping others feel confident and supported. It's flexible and can easily fit into busy lifestyles - just a few hours of your time can make a meaningful difference to local families.

Purpose:

To help raise vital funds and awareness for our caring services by supporting the delivery of community collections and events.

Commitment:

Collections and events take place throughout the year, primarily at weekends, and you can sign up for opportunities that fit around your availability.

Typical activities may include:

- Representing the hospice at pre-booked community collections and events
- Meeting and liaising with venue staff or community champions on the day
- Setting up and taking down collection area, including banners, stands, tables and promotional materials

- Welcoming and briefing volunteer collectors at the start of their collection slots
- Providing support and guidance to volunteers
- Engaging with members of the public and engaging donations through bucket collections
- Raising awareness of our caring services, fundraising activities and ways to support the hospice
- Safely handling collection buckets and following agreed cash-handling procedures
- Securely take the bucket containing the money from the collection and deliver to the nearest hospice site following all risk assessment protocol
